Making Memories: Hatfield in the 1970s

Friday 13th January, 11am – 3pm,
Hatfield Library

Join HLHS members and library staff at Hatfield library to look back at life in the town during the 1970s. There will be an exhibition with a chance to reminisce over a cup tea and a piece of cake and to meet some of the town's long-standing residents.

Please bring your old photographs from the town at this time and we can show you how to add these to the community archive website www.ourhatfield.org.uk

Free, no need to book.

This event has been produced in partnership with University of Hertfordshire, who are hosting an exhibition of photographs by John Myers who captured the changing landscape of the Midlands during the 1970s. His exhibition will be at the Art and Design Gallery, College Lane Campus, Hatfield, 2 December 2016 – 21 January 2017.

Evolving Websites

www.hatfieldhistory.uk

Have a look at HLHS's website where you will now find the Society's old newsletters from the very beginnings, when we were called 'Hatfield This Century', up until December 2014. The newsletters make good reading being full of interesting stories and articles that will jog the memories of some of you and perhaps show others what an interesting history Hatfield has.
